I can't believe that more hasn't been done to resolve this issue. You let this company get away with stealing from the American people. People who shoplift a candybar get more of a handslap than Microsoft has recieved. They have made it virtually impossible to for any good company to compete by not allowing companies that sell computers sell anything but windows on their machines and on top of that if you purchase a machine from a company like this you need to take what it has you don't even have the option of getting it without an OS. Please review what a catastophic lack of justice this is.
